3. Consent

- 3.1. The officer shall ensure that the individual from whom personal information is collected consents to this and to it being used and disclosed, unless obtaining the consent would be inappropriate.
- 3.2. The officer shall ensure that the individual can reasonably understand why and how the information will be used when the consent is given.

6. Accuracy

- 6.1. The officer shall reasonably ensure that the personal information is accurate, complete, and up to date, taking into account the individual's interests. The officer shall ensure that the information is sufficiently accurate, complete, and up to date to minimize the possibility that inappropriate information might be used to make a decision about an individual.
- 6.2. The officer shall ensure that the organization does not routinely update personal information, unless it is necessary to fulfill the purposes for which the information was collected.
- 6.3. The officer shall ensure that personal information used on an ongoing basis, including information that is disclosed to third parties, shall generally be accurate and up to date, unless limits to the requirement for accuracy are clearly set out.

7. Safeguards

Depending of the information's sensitivity, the officer may permit reasonable discretion regarding the information that has been collected: the amount, distribution, format, and the method of storage. A higher level of protection shall safeguard more sensitive information according to the consent principle's considerations.
- 7.3. The officer shall ensure that the protection methods include,

- 9.2. A person requesting his/her personal information may be required by the officer to give sufficient information to permit the organization to provide an account of the existence, use, and disclosure of personal information. Information shall be used only for the purpose for which it was obtained.
- 9.3. If the organization has supplied personal information about an individual to third parties, the officer shall ensure that an attempt is made to be as specific as possible. - 9.4. The officer shall ensure that the organization responds to an individual's request within a reasonable time and at minimal or no cost to the individual. The requested information shall be made available in a generally understandable form.
